

World War One soldiers born in Kiama

This publication lists World War One soldiers who were born in the Kiama Municipality. In the period 1914-1918, Kiama, Gerringong and Jamberoo were individual Municipalities.

The methodology used to arrive at these results was to search the National Archives of Australia database for WW1 servicemen who, in their attestation paper, nominated Kiama as their place of birth. These results were then cross checked against official Kiama birth records as well as NSW BDM records. From this process it was ascertained that many soldiers, who stated that they were born in Kiama, were actually not.

A variable in these results could be those soldiers who, in their attestation paper, nominated a district other than Kiama, but were actually born in Kiama. To counter this would be a major project, cross checking all males born in Kiama within a certain date range, from official records, against WW1 attestation forms contained within the National Archives of Australia database.

Therefore, this list does not purport to be authoritative, but is as accurate as present records allow.
